Balch & Bingham Partner Elected to Executive Committee for American Bar Association's House of Delegates

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. - Balch & Bingham is pleased to announce that Clark Cooper, a partner in the Birmingham office, has gained a leadership position within the American Bar Association (ABA) House of Delegates.

Cooper was recently elected vice chair of the executive committee of the Conference of State Delegates for the House of Delegates, where he will serve a three-year term. The House of Delegates sets policy for the ABA, allowing its public policy and education services to push forward initiatives important to ABA members.

In addition to his new leadership position with ABA's Conference of State Delegates, Cooper serves as Alabama's only ABA State delegate and one of only 52 State delegates from across the country.

"Clark's position with the American Bar Association is a tremendous honor and evident of his recognition as a leader among his peers. We are honored to congratulate Clark on his new position," said Alan Rogers, Managing Partner, Balch & Bingham.

Cooper has more than 19 years of experience as a litigator. He has represented clients in a wide variety of litigation including creditor and lender rights matters and concerns, construction disputes, class actions, fraud claims and significant insurance claim cases. Cooper has also litigated cases involving significant personal injury and wrongful death. He has held leadership positions with the ABA since 2002.
